Citizenship and PSHE is not an understanding is still of paramount importance. Pupils completing recall tasks at the end of each lesson and module. What is equally important as pupil progress in their understanding of the content covered is that students in Citizenship and PSHE develop a range of life-long skills such as resilience, confidence and independence and how to keep physically and mentally healthy. The skills that students develop in Citizenship and PSHE will enable them to continue in the next stages of their lives to further education, apprenticeships, and the world of work.
